Granite City toddler killed in house fire

Child's mother, two others sent to hospital; match-playing may be to blame

GRANITE CITY

A fire that started on the first floor of a home in the 2400 block of Logan early Wednesday morning claimed the life of a child and sent three other residents of the dwelling to St. Elizabeth Medical Center.

Keith Rogers, an investigator with the Madison County

Coroner's office, said 22-month-old Cheyenne Brown died at the scene at about 8:07 a.m. Wednesday. The cause of death, he said, is has not been determined.

Nicole Martin, 27, her 2-month old son, Sam Brown, and her 4-year-old son, Mickey Hausman, were transported to SEMC at 8:35 a.m. and later released.

Granite City Fire Department reports indicated an alarm sounded at the station at about 7:25 a.m.

About five minutes later, firefighters arrived at the scene and found themselves trying to control flames shooting from the front of the house.

When firefighter Vince Martinez entered through the front door, he saw a child laying on a couch motionless in the living room.

"I found her face down," Martinez said. "There wasn't

Coroner's jury rules Christopher youth's death accidental

Victim, 17, had high levels of drugs, alcohol in system, also allegedly threatened suicide

By Scott Cousins
Staff writer

A 17-year-old youth found dead in a parked car in Granite City

City in late February had fatal amounts two separate drugs and a very high blood-alcohol level in his system, according to reports presented at a coroner's inquest Wednesday. A coroner's jury ruled that the Feb. 28 death of Gary J. Butterfield, of Christopher, Butterfield was found dead in a car in the 2200 block of Illinois Avenue in the early afternoon of Feb. 28. Police said he had been dead about 12 hours before being discovered by the brother of the car's owner. Neither knew the youth.

Toxicology reports indicated Butterfield had lethal levels of Darvon, a narcotic painkiller, and acetaminophen, an over-the-counter pain medication which goes under the brand name Tylenol, in his bloodstream.

In addition, Butterfield's blood-alcohol level was .243, just more than three times the legal intoxication level. The level someone is considered legally impaired in Illinois is .08.

Madison County Coroner Dallas Burke said the experts who examined the toxicology samples said "this is an overwhelming dose of Darvon, and without the alcohol, it would have killed him." Taken with alcohol, the drug would have had an even more intense effect.

The Darvon may have been stolen from a home in the Christopher area.

Granite City Police Detective George McLaren said Butterfield had come to the area with two other people. They told police he had been drinking heavily and had allegedly threatened suicide.

One of the witnesses said Butterfield had threatened to kill himself on other occasions, and had told them he once tried to hang himself with barbed wire, although there was no physical evidence to support that statement.

McLaren testified that the group arrived at a house in the 2100 block of Illinois at about 10:15 p.m. on Feb. 27. At about 11 p.m., witnesses said

Haine takes aim at Venice School District

Teacher charged with assault;
Doughty being investigated

By Scott Cousins
Staff writer

The Madison County State's Attorney's office is targeting the troubled Venice School District, charging a teacher with battery Wednesday and considering unrelated action against the superintendent.

Madison County State's Attorney

Bill Haine confirmed Wednesday that he is considering filing criminal charges against Venice School District Superintendent James Doughty over Doughty's alleged refusal to give teachers their checks.

"I've received several complaints from teachers that they have had their pay withheld," Haine said. Haine added that one of his assistant state's attorneys is researching the law on the case, and a final decision should be made by noon today, Thursday.

In an unrelated case, Haine

Dumb remarks only a calendar could really love

They're filled with things, sayings that make you go 'Doh!'

There are several calendars scattered around my home, the most important one being the one used exclusively to remind me of appointments and "must-do's," but my favorite is a gift from a good friend that lists, on a daily basis, the most stupid things ever said. No matter how gloomy the morning, it's always good for a laugh.

have the foresight to see what the possible ramifications of this could be."

Duh? Or the action of the school officials in Shelton, Conn., who changed a school bus route so that it would no longer pass a 15-foot replica of Michelangelo's "David," which stands in a private office park.

This done because a 10-year-old girl on the bus complained to her daddy that the nude masterpiece offended her.

Keep that kid out of art appreciation classes. To say nothing of anatomy.

Then there's the weighty decision (yet to be made, as far as I know) before the Missouri legislators in Jeff City: Is public breast feeding an obscene act?

Right up there in importance with legally concealed weapons, I'd guess.

According to my "stupid quotes" calendar, public officials both elected and appointed often make dumb statements.

We all know they do dumb things. For instance: On the subject of ways to reduce energy usage, an Ohio state representative named Galbraith suggested, "We should abolish January and February. If we then divided the 59 extra days between July and August, we will cut our energy needs by about one-third by eliminating the coldest days of the year. Cold is largely a psychological matter. If people look at the calendar and see that it is July, they will be quite happy to turn the heat down."

Our U.S. Attorney General Janet Reno on jury verdicts: "I always wait until a jury has spoken before I anticipate what they will do."

Newt Gingrich, back in an '89 interview: "The idea that a congressman would be tainted by accepting money from private industry or private sources is essentially a socialist argument." Sure.

Stupid, obviously, knows no gender or party lines. Al Gore, in a verbal attack on then-President George Bush, remarked that "A zebra cannot change its spots." And his earlier counterpart Dan Quayle (quoted in the calendar more than anyone else) explained the difference between the House and the Senate thusly, "There are lots more people in the House. I don't know how many exactly. I never counted, but at least a couple hundred."

A top favorite, from Charles Peacock, former director of Madison Guaranty, as justification for a check to Bill Clinton's re-election campaign: "I'm a politician, and as a politician, I have the prerogative to lie whenever I want."

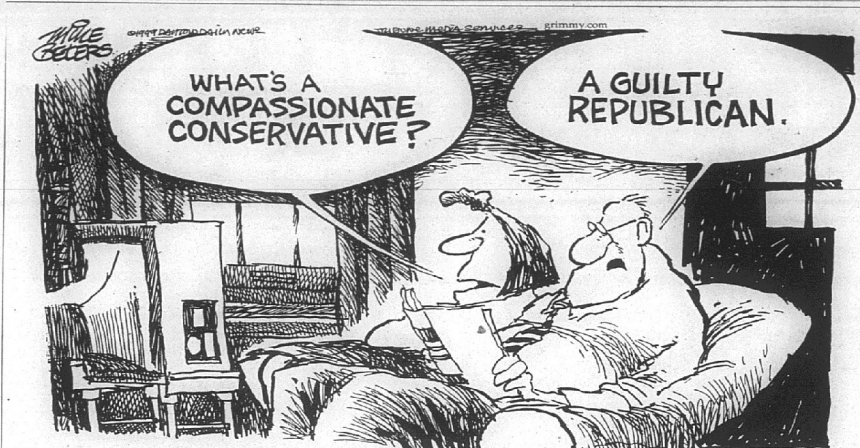

Now that's honesty. Yesterday being St. Patrick's Day, the calendar quote was totally apropos, coming from the late Richard J. Daley. The former "Boss" of Chicago, native of the city's Cabbage Patch, for whom the bell has long tolled, is cited for his version of the great English poet John Donne.

The unforgettable Daley: "No man is an island."

I've been told that there are only two kinds of people in the world. The Irish and those who would like to be Irish.

Whichever group you belong to, it really doesn't matter today. Hope you had a good one.

Letters to the Editor

County government cheats us all

TO THE EDITOR:

Many of us are often angered when we read of child abuse in the news. Yet, when elected officials hurt our children in a vile and unjust manner by legally stealing our hard-earned tax dollars, some of us simply shake our heads.

So often, I hear, "oh, well, it's always been that way; we can't change it."

I say, "bull."

Yet another travesty is in the news about our Madison County Board. Now another board member has more than tripled his retirement benefits overnight.

According to a newspaper account, Tony Rosich increased his retirement benefits from $7,822 a year to $23,232. This atrocity was accomplished by simply resigning from the county board and joining the Metro-East Sanitary District until he retires at the end of the month. This is the second board member to receive a sweetheart pension in recent months.

A short while ago, Jack Frandsen increased his benefits from $7,866 a year to $32,522 when County Board Chairman Rudy Pappa appointed him auditor.

It is possible that Jack, after only working a few short months at his new job, can now retire as soon as tomorrow and continue to receive those benefits for the remainder of his life.

This practice is becoming commonplace in Madison County politics, and it must be stopped. We must demand that our state legislators revoke this loophole in the law immediately and force those outrageous benefits to be returned to the taxpayers at office.

This is tax money that could be spent on better schools, buildings and equipment. This is a crime against children.

Elected officials and other public employees who milk the system for their own personal greed and power are harming our school systems. They are hurting all of us.

When a tax referendum comes up for consideration, who, in their right mind, is going to approve of donating more of their hard-earned income to perpetuate such actions?

Our Madison County elected officials surely must be laughing at us behind closed doors. How stupid they must think we are.

Their arrogance sickens me. Voter apathy saddens me.

What's the reason behind Crouch moves?

TO THE EDITOR:

In one of your recent publications, you covered a story about the Pontoon Beach chief of police filing official complaints which cited technical faults in the documents filed by a candidate in the upcoming village election.

Chief Crouch identified himself as a "concerned citizen" and demanded that the documents be thrown out and the candidate be disqualified from running. The Village Election Board has since denied his complaints and refused to remove the candidate.

Crouch then appealed his ruling to the Madison County Court, and we await the results.

The candidate in question, of course, is Jim Denham.

For someone who knows how those people think (and I most certainly do), it is easily apparent that Crouch has become a "concerned citizen" for two reasons; one, his boss, Glen Wilson, told him to; and two, he knows that if Jim Denham remains a candidate and subsequently wins the election, he will need to find another job.

Jim Denham recently retired from the Pontoon Beach Police Department. Mr. Denham has served as a policeman since the department was first created in the late 1960s. I believe he was the first chief in the department as we know it today.

Jim has had a long and distinguished career where he has shown a fine regard for the police department and the village's residents. If the chief's position were to be filled according to merit and ability, then Jim would certainly have the job. But, unfortunately, that is not the case in Pontoon Beach.

Jim and I share the opinion that the demands of that position is beyond the capabilities of the person currently holding it. Mr. Denham promises change, and I applaud him for it.

We have a police department staffed with young, dedicated officers with unlimited capabilities who are handcuffed by constraints imposed by the political bosses. It has been my experience that if you are not considered to be a "political friendly" by Mayor Glen Wilson, then he doesn't think that you deserve police protection.

also confirmed that a teacher at the school has been charged with battery over an incident involving a student at the elementary school.

Shawn L. Turner, 33, of the 400 block of West Lake Drive, Edwardsville, was charged with one count of misdemeanor battery Wednesday. Bond was set at $10,000.

According to court documents, on March 10, Turner allegedly grabbed a 6-year-old by the neck.

These revelations came as the School Board set a special meeting for tonight to hear complaints from parents. The meeting is set for 6 p.m. in the Venice High School gym.

Parents continue to remain angry at Doughty and board members over recent incidents in the district.

At last week's regular board meeting, about 80 people crowded into the regular meeting room, many wanting to talk during the meeting. The board refused to move the meeting to a larger place, and a series of arguments ensued. Eventually, police were called and the meeting was adjourned without any business being conducted.

After the meeting, Doughty was escorted off the property by police.

A secretary at the board office confirmed that the special meeting had been called and said Doughty had no comment until the meeting. On Monday, parents upset by the situation met at the Venice Recreation Center.

Pam Wilson, one of the organizers, said they are considering seeking legal help. She also said several parents picket the high school on a daily basis to draw attention to the situation.

In a related matter, on March 8, Doughty sent a letter home with students announcing a "zero-tolerance" policy for false fire alarms and said that the school's fire alarms had been coated with an "invisible" substance that could be detected under ultraviolet light.

Butterfield's mother and stepfather disputed reports that the youth was suicidal.

Susan Barnhart testified that her son was engaged and had been planning to find a job.

"He never said anything about suicide," Barnhart said. "He had all these plans."

His stepfather, Roy Barnhart, said Butterfield had been forced to go to St. Louis.

THE LAW AND YOU

By RICK REED
Attorney At Law

Sometimes a person will obtain an order of protection against his or her former spouse. The purpose in obtaining an order of protection is to keep the defendant from harming, harassing or threatening the other party. After an order of protection is entered, the question frequently arises as to whether the defendant has violated this order.

In one recent case, a woman (Kathleen) obtained an order of protection against her former husband in order to prohibit him from harassing her and from coming to her place of employment. The period of time covered by the order was from April 16, 1992 until April 16, 1994.

On February 6, 1993, Kathleen returned to her residence and found a threatening message from the defendant on her telephone answering machine. She further testified that the defendant came to the temporary employment agency where she worked as a receptionist on February 8, 1993. The defendant asked for an employment application and then left. On February 19, 1993, the defendant returned to the employment agency. The employer asked him to leave. The defendant stated that he was there only to talk to his ex-wife about a typewriter, and then he left.

The state's attorney brought charges against the defendant for violation of the order of protection, and he was convicted after a jury trial. He was sentenced to 90 days incarceration on two separate counts.

The defendant argued on appeal that the State failed to prove him guilty beyond a reasonable doubt. He noted that he only went into the doorway area at his ex-wife's place of employment and that he created no disturbance.

The Appellate Court noted here that the original order of protection specifically prohibited the defendant from entering or remaining at Kathleen's place of employment. It did not specify how far into the place of employment he had to be nor did it require a certain intent of his part.

The Court noted that despite the clarity of the original order, the defendant not only came to her place of employment, but he did so on two occasions. It was no defense that he did not cause a scene while there nor harass Kathleen. He entered her place of employment which was an act prohibited by the order of protection. Therefore, the Appellate Court affirmed his conviction.

Granite City Council debates structures alderman objected to a proposed ordinance supported by Second Ward Alderman Craig Tarpoiff.

Tarpoiff would like to see an ordinance passed that would allow metal structures to be built in residential areas, but only if they were built within close proximity of similar, pre-existing metal structures.

Fifth Ward Alderman Eddie Asadorian was one who objected to the proposal during an aldermanic Planning and Zoning Committee meeting that convened before the council meeting.

Asadorian said that the proposal would enable metal structures to be built in some wards and not others. Such an ordinance.

Asadorian said, would be "unfair."

Fourth Ward Alderman Foster "Freddie" Frederick added that Granite City is not an affluent community and having metal structures built in some areas and not others would be unrealistic.

Sixth Ward Alderman Sandy Shaw, who is part of the Planning and Zoning Committee along with Tarpoiff and Third Ward Alderman Pat Davis, said that the committee will continue to work with the aldermen until there is an "agreement to build them (metal structures) in certain areas and under certain conditions."

Shaw also said there may be zoning ordinance changes in regard to the structures, but added that she would not comment on any changes because at this point they are based on speculation.

A proposal to allow the structures to be built in certain areas of Granite City come about two weeks ago when Tarpoiff asked the council to look into such an ordinance. The council passed a motion 8-5 in Tarpoiff's favor.

On March 7, ground was broken for a new Granite City Foursquare Gospel Church on E. 23rd Street, next to Lake Elementary School.

The church's construction caused some friction between Granite City Mayor Ron Selph and several aldermen. Selph considered the church a pre-engineered metal structure, while some aldermen did not.

Lewis has Flyers on track for state title

When you get to Bennie Lewis' age — 59 — you have to wonder whether another state basketball championship is in the works.

Lewis and his East St. Louis Lincoln Tigers had quite a run in the 1980s, winning four Illinois Class AA state titles — including three in a row from 1987-89.

Not that Lewis needs another state championship to justify his place in Illinois high school basketball history.

Check the IHSAA record book, and you'll see Lewis' name listed quite often among state tournament coaching records.

There's the four-state titles, tying him with Ron Felling of Lawrenceville as the coach with the most state championships. There's a string of 30 straight wins in the state tournament series (1987-90), by far the most ever by any boys coach in Illinois. There are the three straight championships tying him with Wayne McClaine of Peoria Manual (1995-97).

But while the distant past had been good to Lewis, the near past hadn't. In fact, the last time Lewis led the team into the state's elite eight was in 1990.

So, when Lewis' East St. Louis Flyers squad knocked off previously unbeaten Mount Vernon 72-58 Tuesday night in the Carbondale Super-sectional at the SIU Arena, the veteran coach was able to smile again.

Lewis was going to state again — this time with a new team and at a new site. While Lewis, an East St. Louis Lincoln graduate, was not in favor of the merger with East St. Louis Senior High this year, he realized he had no choice if he wanted to keep coaching.

"We lost it," Lewis said of the battle to keep two high schools in East St. Louis. "But we kept the coaching staff together, and we all worked together to make it happen."

There is still a big part of Lincoln in Lewis, of course. When asked the makeup of this year's team in terms of Lincoln and East St. Louis players from the 1987-89 rosters, Lewis said: "We have eight of our guys — I mean Lincoln players — and seven from East Side."

Lewis admitted it took awhile to blend the two teams. The Flyers now are on a roll, playing their best ball and winning 13 straight games to run their record to 24-5.

Mount Vernon came into the game 28-0, ranked second in the state and 18th nationally, but the Rams were no match for the Flyers on this night. East St. Louis stormed out to a 16-4 lead and never looked back. The closest Mount Vernon came was six points late in the second period. The Flyers led by 10 at halftime and by 14 points going into the final period before ballooning the lead to 20 points in the fourth quarter.

Mount Vernon all-star Kent Williams correctly summarized the game by saying, "They came out making their shots and we didn't."

For the game, East St. Louis made 53.5 percent (23 of 43) of its shots from the field, while Mount Vernon mustered only 35.1 percent (25 of 70).

The Mount Vernon legacy dies for now. The Kent Williams-led Rams made it to the state finals as sophomores by beating Alton two years ago. However, they play that well this weekend they are going to win some more games."

Miles set the tone early for the Flyers, scoring 11 points in the first quarter while grabbing five rebounds and rejecting three Rams shots. Those numbers helped East Side to an 18-8 lead after one quarter.

All eight of Mount Vernon's first-period points came from Kent Williams, who closed out a four-year career with 2,165 points — including his 21 points on Tuesday.

For the Flyers, Miles offered 20 points, 16 rebounds and 11 blocked

Granite City will miss Tindall, Simpson, but has bright future with May, Pistorius

The numbers were better, for those obsessed with numbers.

The Granite City boys basketball team posted a 13-16 record this season, bettering the 10-17 mark of the previous season.

There were some similarities — long losing streaks toward the end of the year and struggles against the loaded Southwestern Conference schedule.

But the record does not completely reflect the level of talent or the conditioning or effort from the Warriors this winter.

"I'm proud of the kids, they worked hard," Granite City coach John VanBuskirk said. "That's the main thing. We talked all season about how we weren't rewarded for the effort and they still played good basketball. That's something that is just a lesson that you have to learn. Yet they came out at the end of the year, they won a game (against Belleville Althoff in the IHSAA Class AA regional playoffs), had something of a chance against East St. Louis, but didn't shoot the ball well. But I'm proud of them for not giving up and for working so hard. They all improved as basketball players."

"And forget basketball, we hope they take some lessons from this season and apply them to their lives. I hope that's what they get out of it, some learning to apply to the bigger picture. I hope that's what happens."

The Warriors bring back two players next season who were essentially the team's top players this year — point guard Zack May (11 points and 4 assists per game) and forward Matt Pistorius (16 points per game). Their return could help Granite City hurdle the .500 mark next winter.

"That's a big factor," VanBuskirk said. "Then you have to appreciate (freshman) Teddy Wallace and (junior) Kevin (Elliot) and all of the other young men who are going to get a chance to play next year. You have to be

East St. Louis upsets Mount Vernon

For three years, the Mount Vernon Rams have taken the King City on one unbelievable ride.

The ride suddenly stopped Tuesday night at the SIU Arena, three games short of its ultimate destination.

East St. Louis hammered Mount Vernon 72-58 in the IHSAA Class AA Carbondale Super-sectional.

Backed by a triple-double from 6-foot-9 junior phenom Darius Miles and 28 clutch points from guard Phillip Gilbert, the Flyers stopped the No. 2 state-ranked Rams in front of a sold-out partisan Mount Vernon crowd. Previously unbeaten Mount Vernon finished the season at 26-1.

East St. Louis, in its first year after consolidating with crosstown Lincoln High, won its 13th consecutive game and moved to 24-5 on the year. They Flyers will play in the quarterfinals of the IHSAA Class AA state tournament, 6-45 p.m. Friday in Peoria against Westchester St. Joseph. The trip to the state quarterfinals is the first for Senior since 1979 but it is the seventh for coach Bennie Lewis, with the first six coming at Lincoln.

The Flyers have been beatable on at least five occasions this season but Rams coach Doug Creel wondered how that was possible after Tuesday.

"If they play the way they did tonight all season they are not a 23-5 club," Creel said. "They were just a lot better tonight than we were and if they play that well this weekend they are going to win some more games."

Miles set the tone early for the Flyers, scoring 11 points in the first quarter while grabbing five rebounds and rejecting three Rams shots. Those numbers helped East Side to an 18-8 lead after one quarter.

Granite City opens season at Carbondale meet

The Granite City track teams opened the spring season where they ended last year, with strong performances from the boys and the girls squads.

Twenty-five teams were scheduled to compete at the Southern Illinois

Briggs pleased with performance of boys, girls

University-Carbondale Invitational on Saturday afternoon. The Warriors placed 12th or higher in four boys events and nine girls events.

"It was an excellent opportunity to get on the track and compete," Granite City coach Gene Briggs said. "The competition levels were quite high and we knew that they would be going in.

It's always a good idea to test yourself against good competition, so we appreciated the opportunity."

"We found out that in some areas we are progressing nicely and in other areas we need to work harder. So a little good and a little bad."

The boys had a sixth-place finish from Earl Clark in the triple jump and a seventh-place finish from Kevin Atkins in the 1,600 meters.

"The places that we gathered were quite encouraging," Briggs said. "The 4x800 was one of our stronger events last year and they placed sixth at the indoor meet."

"We knew that Earl was going to be strong and that Kevin was going to be

Warriors plan to continue winning tradition

With many returning players, team will bid for MVCHA title

The Illinois Warriors won the championship in the Mississippi Valley Club Hockey Association last year, their first in existence.

CLUB ICE HOCKEY

This year, the Warriors fell short, dropping a quarterfinal game to last year's other finalist, Edwardsville. But the Warriors think they have successfully launched a program that, in the years to come, will be regarded in the same breath as the other keepers of Granite City lore.

"We hear a lot of things about Granite City about traditions," Warriors coach Paul Solberger said. "We are trying to build a winning tradition. We came into this league, we won the title last year, we won our division this year, and we fell short of another championship. But I think we set the standard for the play of hockey in that league."

"I think teams look at us and they know that if they want to get to the championship they are going to have to get by Granite City. I think that is comparable to the wrestling and soccer programs in Granite and I think that is what we brought to this league. So we are trying to set out and have a winning tradition."

The Warriors can return almost their entire roster from this year, including defensive-minded forward Dave Svezia, speedy Dustin Wesley and scoring standout Bobby Meszaros.

"Next year, the kids are coming back," Solberger said. "We only graduated three players, and we come back and we are going to have a lot of seniors. We want to come back and win the championship."

The Warriors have an strong and we knew our 4x800 was going to be strong, so we were happy to see that it came out that way."

The girls contingent, expected to be bolstered after a strong 1998 by the younger members of the team, didn't disappoint.

"With the girls, it's easy to see that there were more events that we were placing in at the meet," Briggs said. "The competition levels were similar to the boys, but our girls seem to be performing at a little higher level right now."

"We are very encouraged with our place in the 400-meter dash. Shannon Stapleton (fifth) ran a great race. We expect that she is certainly going to be one of the better runners in the area this year."

"Nicole Bellman placed (sixth) in the 200 and also had a high place (11th) in the long jump. She'll be very strong this year in those events."

"Our triple jumper, Sarah Kuehnle, placed ninth. She is only a freshman, so that was a strong performance by her. Our hurdler, Amber Ridgway, was a heat-winner and made it into the finals (10th). So we were real pleased by that, because she is a freshman also."

"Our high-jumper (Melissa White, 10th), shot-putter (Alisa Monroe, 11th) and miler (Penny Meyer, 10th) performed well. We were also effective in the 4x800 relay (10th). That was a strong event last year and it is again this year."

"We probably need more depth in our girls program, but we certainly have some outstanding individuals who are going to perform well for us. Individually, we should have some outstanding events. But without additional depth, we won't be as competitive as a team in the team standings. Whether we develop depth depends on if we get more people to join the team this week. This will be the last week we are taking entries for track. Right now we are probably hoping that through our training we develop the depth within our program."

"The track team competes Monday in the Collinsville Relays. "The meet Monday is just intended to get all the kids involved so that we have the opportunity to see performances by all our athletes," Briggs said. "It's basically set up to be a quick meet so that if the weather early in the year isn't too good, we aren't out there too long. We do have a relay format, where we are not doing a regular track meet with regular open events. It's a chance to go out and see where we are at again."

happy; you have to look forward to the opportunity you'll get to work with them."

The Warriors will lose their frontcourt standouts — Chris Tindall and Mike Simpson — to graduation.

"Hopefully we will have big guys come in and fill that role," VanBuskirk said. "Teddy Wallace is going to be a hard person to keep out of that lineup, so that makes us a little smaller. Yet that's something that we have to work at. We hope that one or two of those big kids will fill that role and make the competition tough, that's what we hope."

The departing players believe the Warriors will be strong next winter.

"They are going to have a great team next year," Tindall said. "If they aren't regional champs then Granite City is never going to be. They have four great players and they still have guys moving up, big men."

James Tapp, Justin Slay, Jon Slay are all great players."

Losses on the scoresheet won't sour the memories of Tindall and Simpson, for whom the play really was the thing.

"I can remember when they were freshmen, their team won the freshman tournament here."

"I can remember watching them play and thinking that they could be good high school players. They didn't disappoint me. They worked extremely hard and I am proud to say that I got to coach them. I'm just happy for them and I wish we could have won every game for them. They are just those kinds of special kids."

"Looking back on it, I think of a lot of hard work, teamwork and unity."

Tindall said. "Saturday mornings we had practice and after practice we would all go out to eat. I'm going to miss playing with all these guys, especially the coaches. Coach VanBuskirk is a great coach and a great guy. Coach (Carl) Luehmman gets on your behind but it is all for the good."

"I wish I could do it all over again," Simpson said. "All kinds of great memories came out of it. Everything I thank my coaches and parents for, and I also thank God for helping me be able to do this thing."

Lewis earns return trip to state tourney they lost to Centralia in sectional play last year and now to East St. Louis this year. The highly-touted Rams were 77-10 over the last three seasons, but have no state tournament trophy to show for it.

The Darius Miles-led Flyers are hoping to add to Lewis' personal stock this weekend when they travel to Peoria to take on Westchester St. Joseph at 8:45 p.m. in the quarterfinals. Miles was brilliant and entertaining against Mount Vernon, racking up 20 points, 16 rebounds and eight blocked shots.

"We're playing our best ball of the year."

Bennie Lewis
East St. Louis coach

Phillip Gilbert also played a big part in the victory, canning four 3-pointers and finishing with a game-high 26 points.

Williams ended his brilliant high school career with 21 points for Mount Vernon.

"We're peaking at the right time," said Lewis, who certainly knows about such things. "We're playing our best ball of the year."

shots while altering several other Mount Vernon efforts.

The Rams closed within six at 27-21 late in the second period on a layup by Scott Gamber, but baskets by Gilbert and Miles were the last points scored in the half, putting the Flyers ahead 31-21 at the break.

Mount Vernon last saw a single-digit deficit after Jon Knoche bombed a 3-pointer from the top of the key with 4:28 to play in the third, leaving the Rams down 41-32. But the basket by Knoche, who fought foul trouble all night and ended with those three points, was answered with seven straight points from East Side. A layup by Flyers point guard Daniel Hawkins off a jaw-dropping pass by Miles kicked the lead to 48-32.

Mount Vernon brought the game back to 10 (53-43) on a Kyle McClure 3-point shot at the 5:43 mark in the fourth but the Flyers sealed the victory by outscoring the Rams 12-2 over the next two minutes.

Half of the Rams' points in the last eight minutes came from junior Steve Strickland, who scored all 12 of his tallies in the fourth.

"You have to take the bad with the good and we've had a lot of good," said

Creel. "This group went 78-10 and our goal was to get back to state (where the Rams landed as a sophomore-dominated group in 1997). We just came up a game short."

Lewis said the struggle in merging the two teams from East St. Louis has been a tough task, but the effort of his players has been rewarded.

"At first, some of the kids from Senior wouldn't listen to us (the coaching staff)," Lewis said. "But right around Christmas (when the Flyers won the Collinsville-Schnucks Holiday Classic) we started to put things together."

excellent feeder system in place with the Granite City Steelers Hockey Club.

"We have a lot of young talent in the works here at Granite," Solberger said. "Our junior varsity team had a great year this year and we are reaping the rewards of the Granite City Steelers program.

The whole North Division is. "You look at kids like Jim Rogers (Bethalto) and kids on our team and throughout the league — Carl Coleman and Zack Robinette (Edwardsville). I coached all those kids in the Steelers program. That program has fed the North just like the Cahokia program has fed the better players in the South. So we have the youth programs that are feeding us."

"It's nice to see that the Southern Division got the Fairview Heights facility to work with, just as we picked up East Alton. The big thing I see with the Granite City Steelers program is that they brought in Jake Hinstler, who is in charge of all the coaches. He has brought some credibility and he had brought some young coaches. Down the line, we are going to continue to reap the rewards of the Steelers program."

Hockey success fits Granite City. The rink in Wilson Park was built in 1966, while Bill Hodge was the rink manager. Hodge was playing senior hockey in Brentwood (Mo.)

when he got hockey rolling over here.

"I can remember well, I was in third grade," Solberger said. "Rick Hodge started playing and we were buddies. We had played little league football together. Mr. Hodge got us interested. We were out at the rink skating and he worked with it and the organization was formed. Jake Hinstler and Mr. Hodge and those guys did a lot of work and got that organization started. So hockey was born on the east side in that ice rink."

"We want to keep that tradition and that longevity going. We are trying to start out and have a winning tradition (in MVCHA). We started something and we want to see it through. It would be awesome to see these kids win a championship next year."

Royal Rangers honor members; Wilch named new pastor

The Royal Ranger Outpost 259 boys group of Family Worship Center, 15 Perigen Lane in Granite City, has been very active recently.

The annual Royal of the Year Candlelight Ceremony of Achievement was held Feb. 2.

Awards for the year went to: Straight Arrow, David Jackson, Matthew Barton and Josh Hutchins; Buckaroo, Michael Johnson, Adam Johnson and Jesse Copeland; Pioneer, Patrick Skinner, Aaron Bailey and Devon

Johnson; Trailblazer, Shannon Blockton, Tim Frost, and Bryan Harris; Trail Ranger, Joe Klug, Everett Merritt and Joe Skinner.

Charles Chartrand, Matthew Degonia and Tim Frost each earned their Cut-and-Chop card and Toolcraft award.

Congratulations also go out to Joe Klug, who received the Gold Buffalo Award.

On March 27, the outpost will be having its annual all-you-can-eat chili, drink and dessert fund-raiser which helps support the costs of Ministry for the boys. Call 452-0389 for all information.

The Royal Rangers also held a Pinewood Derby races Feb. 8. Straight Arrow/Buckaroo outpost winners were David Jackson and Adam Johnson; Pioneer outpost winners were Patrick Skinner, Charlie

Johnson; Trailblazer, Shannon Blockton, Tim Frost, and Bryan Harris; Trail Ranger, Joe Klug, Everett Merritt and Joe Skinner. The top eliminator was Michael Harris.

First Baptist Church of Granite City has called David Wilch to pastor their congregation.

He holds a master's degree in religious education and has an honorary doctorate in music.

The Madison County Baptist Association extends a warm welcome to David and his wife, Mary.

The Ruth Class of Calvary Baptist Church held their candy kiss. Refreshments were served by Delores Carson and Dorothy Watkins. Others present were Bernice Boyer, Pat Wallis, Ruth Dagon and one guest, Louise Baker.

Maxine Green

monthly meeting in the fellowship hall.

Bernice Boyer led the group in prayer; the secretary, Ruth Dagon, read the minutes of the last meeting. Pat Wallis gave the treasurer's report, while Dorothy Watkins reported mailing four cheer cards.

The project of the month is to give food for the mission pantry. Dorothy Watkins gave a devotional on love and gave each member a chocolate

There is still some space on the bus if you want to go on the senior adult trip to Myrtle Beach, S.C., and Sevierville, Tenn. A $100 deposit is due immediately; the balance is due on April 1.

The bus will leave from the Baptist Center at 5 a.m. Monday, May 10. Call 831-6222 for information or to register.

Maxine Green covers the social scene for the Granite City Press-Record.

Obituaries

Rex Buckingham Sr.
REX E. BUCKINGHAM SR., 69, of Edwardsville, died Saturday, March 6, 1999, at Missouri Baptist Hospital in St. Louis.

Mr. Buckingham was born July 5, 1929, in Madison. He was a retired steel worker at Granite City Steel and was a member of the Wood Crafts men, United Steelworkers of America Local 67, Joyful Noise Kitchen Band and Word of Life Tabernacle in Granite City.

Survivors include his wife, Juanita Buckingham; four sons, Ricardo Buckingham, Keith Buckingham, Gary Spray and Rex Buckingham Jr., all of Granite City; four daughters: Sheila Buckingham of Granite City, Sherree Brannon, of Ingwood, Mo., Lori Bush of Highland and Gail Eaker of Granite City; one brother, Tom Buckingham of Mt. Olive; 20 grandchildren; and five great-grandchildren.

He was preceded in death by his parents, Tom and Ola (Boone) Buckingham; three brothers: Lee, Truel and Roy Buckingham; one sister, Margaret Schneider; and one grandson, Ricky Buckingham.

Services were held Tuesday, March 9, at Word of Life Tabernacle in Granite City, with the Rev. Henry Crippen officiating. Burial was in Sunset Hill Memorial Estates in Glen Carbon.

Werner Chapel handled the arrangements.

Create A Table table and chair groups
All tables, chairs and even dining pieces on sale.

Now, you can create a table to both complement your decor and fit your needs. It's easy with John Greenleaf's new Create A Table program. This flexible program lets you choose from a variety of table top and leg styles. To help make your selection, start by answering a few questions.

- Consider Your Lifestyle
- How many people do I need to seat every day?
 - How many people will I need to seat for special occasions?
 - Am I looking for a casual or more formal style?
 - Do I have a preference for rectangular or oval tables?
 - How large is my dining area? Will it accommodate the size of table and the number of chairs needed?

Beautifully made from solid red alder maple. Tables available in casual butcher block or formal plank style. Sizes from 34" x 60" solid top to 42" x 57" (plus two 12" leaves). Seating from two to at least eight people.

Drill, pom pon teams strut their stuff

Accompanied by music that ranged from '70s funk to the soundtrack of "Flashdance," from hip-hop to swing, pom pon and drill teams from throughout southwestern Illinois were strutting their stuff Saturday in Collinsville.

About 750 girls from 52 schools competed in the Illinois Drill Team Association Super-sectional, held at Collinsville High School. Teams competed in categories ranging from traditional pom and kick routines, to dance, specialty and production numbers.

Winners will compete at the state championships Saturday at the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign.

"Competition was very good; it ran very very smoothly," said Cindy Hollinshead, competition director. "We've done it enough times that we know how to do it."

One of her biggest worries was weather. Because of a predicted heavy snowstorm, organizers tried to speed up the competition so people could get home faster. However, the snow went to the south.

In drill team competition, there is no set number of teams that will advance.

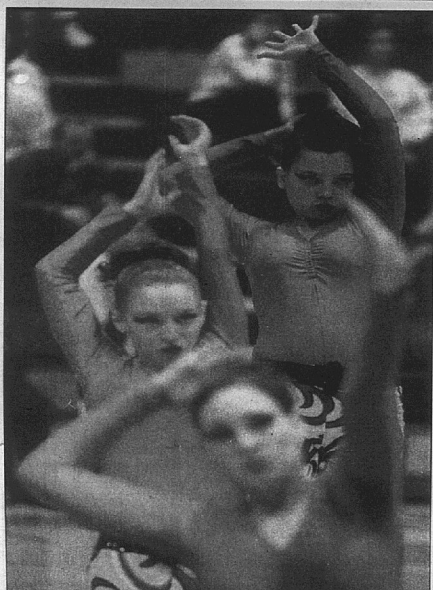

Judging is based on two categories: general effect and execution.

General effect categories include creativity, mood/emotion, variety, staging, communication and emotion. Execution includes cohesiveness, tempo, poise and body orientation.

Teams are judged on a point scale and must score a minimum of 156 to go to state.

Local teams advancing to the state finals include:

AA Pom/Dance, Althoff Catholic High School in Belleville, first place; AA Aerobic/Funk, Triad High School in St. Jacob, third place, and Mascoutah, sixth place; AAA Aerobic/Funk, Belleville Township High School West, first place, Edwardsville, second place, Granite City, third place, and O'Fallon, fourth place; AAA Kick, Collinsville, first place; AA Pom, Althoff, first place; AAA Pom, O'Fallon, first place; AAA Dance, Belleville West, first place, Edwardsville, third place, and Collinsville, fourth place.

Collection looks back at SIUE music festival

By Sanford J. Schmidt
Staff writer

It was perhaps ironic that two of the earliest visitors to the new Mississippi River Festival Retrospective Exhibit at SIUE were business majors when the festival was in its heyday.

Steve Madson, 44, and Al Pauli, 37, both of Edwardsville, were browsing around the collection of photos, clothing and trinkets Saturday at the exhibit at the Morris Center University Gallery at Southern Illinois University Edwardsville.

An opening reception for the exhibit was Wednesday at the gallery in Delyte Morris University Center.

Madson and Pauli were student workers at the MRF and got to meet some of the stars that shone at the outdoor festival from 1969 to 1978.

"It was the greatest student job you could have," said Madson, now a sales representative.

The festival was often jammed with bearded, bearded, fringed, booted hippies who looked like anything but future business people.

But Madson and Pauli also have fond memories of meeting stars like Mary Travers, Arlo Guthrie and Jerry Garcia.

"It's a fantastic exhibit and long overdue," Pauli said.

His fondest memory is of Jerry Garcia, the late leader of the legendary Grateful Dead.

Pauli was working security and had allowed a lot of young women to go backstage because band groupies had given them passes.

The road manager was giving Pauli a hard time for allowing so many women backstage, but Garcia heard the manager raise his voice and went to Pauli's rescue.

"He came out, put his arm around the road manager and said, 'We never have too many women,'" Pauli said. The young security guard will never forget Garcia's plain folks kindness. "He could see I was just a kid," Pauli said.

He said he and his wife have

Women absent in version of 'Nunsense'

Summerstage to present all-male show this weekend

By Scott Cousins
Staff writer

Nuns are funny people, even when they don't shave and talk in deep voices.

With that in mind, theater-goers will be in for a double treat this week.

"Nunsense A-men," an all-male version of "Nunsense," opens Friday at the Summerstage Playhouse in Granite City.

"It's the same script, the same songs," said Director Marc Lull, who also plays Sister Mary Robert Ann. "When you think about it, nuns are pretty generic in their appearance anyway. We're celebrating the humor of the nuns."

Shows will be at 7 p.m. Friday and Saturday, and at 2 p.m. Sunday.

Lull said a 7 p.m. Sunday show may be added because opening night is already sold out.

"This is the St. Louis area premier of the (all-male) show," he said. "The New York production closed in February, and we were the first in this area to obtain the rights to it."

Lull said that although people will come in knowing that men are on stage, he hopes they will soon forget.

"That's the actors' job to create that illusion," he said. "It's just the fact that nuns are so funny."

In addition to Lull, performers will be the Rev.

William Davis, pastor of St. Bartholomew's Episcopal Church in Granite City, as the Reverend Mother, Sister Mary Regina.

Other performers — all St. Louis actors — are George M. Jones as Sister Mary Hubert, Richard Waters as Sister Mary Amnesia and Rob Davis as Sister Mary Leo.

The show follows the efforts of five nuns who put on a variety show to raise money to bury the other members of their order — who died of food poisoning after eating soup.

Summerstage Playhouse is located at 1350 27th St., Granite City. For information, call 451-1032.

Show will feature quilts and quilting techniques

By Rebecca Hopkins

Villa Rose Senior Living Community in Bethalto will celebrate National Quilting Day with a free exhibit Saturday.

The show will be held from 10 a.m. until 4 p.m. Housing counselor Joan Bourland said some of the residents at Villa Rose may be demonstrating quilting techniques.

"They always have a quilt on a frame in the recreation room," she said. "Some of the residents will be working on a quilt on and off throughout the day."

Jan Coats, the owner of Patchwork Plus, an Alton quilt shop, will lend her expertise on the art of quilting as well as provide a booth of supplies for sale at the show.

Coats will answer questions about quilting and demonstrate techniques of the Colonial American art.

"We'll have a variety of demonstrations throughout the day," Coats said.

"I will be demonstrating the technique of quilting on my current project, a Grandmother's Country Album quilt."

A portion of the show will be devoted to a presentation on kit quilts by Arene Burgess. A quilt maker and collector, Burgess will present her slide-show program at 1 p.m. The presentation will feature the history surrounding the quilts "American Glory," "Calico Rose," and "Enchanted Garden."

Participants in a Patchwork Plus-sponsored block contest will display their individual entries to be judged and awarded prizes based on design and workmanship. All of the blocks were donated to the shop where the employees will create a finished quilt from them to be given to the Easter Seal Society for a fund-raising project.

"We've had great response to the contest in the shop," Coats said. "We've received enough blocks to set

All guests attending the show may enter a drawing for an oak quilt rack to be raffled the day of the show.

In movies, subtle sounds matter

Films battle for Oscars over use of sound effects

Among all the sound and fury of the war and action movies nominated for the Academy Awards' best achievement in sound is this unlikely candidate:

"Shakespeare in Love."

The costume drama does have some clippity-clop of horse hoofs and a clanging exchange of blades in a brief sword fight, but mostly it's a lot of talking. And that, says sound man Robin O'Donoghue, is what made the project so challenging.

"The tricky scenes are when you have a quiet scene between two actors in the room and maintain the life of the city in the background," said O'Donoghue. "The little sounds — the little ticking clocks, the distant church bell — they take a lot more thought and consideration of how they're played and positioned."

"Shakespeare in Love" faces tough competition from films lauded for their groundbreaking use of sound, from the terrifying battle noises in "Saving Private Ryan" to the surreal swooshing of the undulating grasses in "The Thin Red Line."

But even for those noisier pictures, it may be the subtle use of sound that determines the winner.

In one of the more confusing Oscar races, sound is broken down into two categories; three films compete for best achievement in sound effects editing, and five for best achievement in sound — the blending of effects with dialogue and music. Often, there is overlap among the nominees.

This year the sound effects nominees are "Armageddon," "The Mask of Zorro" and "Saving Private Ryan," while sound achievement nominees are "Armageddon," "Zorro," "Saving Private Ryan," and "Shakespeare in Love" and "The Thin Red Line." Awards will be given out in Los Angeles on Sunday.

The art of sound is to use the noises, dialogue and music to move the story forward, bring characters to life and create emotions. Even a war picture can't survive entirely on big explosions.

been trying to persuade officials to put on the retrospective for a few years. The people who worked at the festival have fond memories, said Pauli, now a management information systems manager for the Criminal Justice Institute.

"We go out to the site to look around. There are a lot of ghosts out there," he said.

The reception Wednesday included photo opportunities and interviews with the people who helped operate the festival. The exhibit runs through March 31. Bad weather caused the cancellation of the opening reception March 8.

The exhibit includes 500 photographs of the performers and audience members and workers. It includes two videos of MRF documentaries, thousands of news clips and other memorabilia, such as the electronic control board built for Garcia and The Dead.

Lyle Ward, the concert manager for most of the MRF years, said he put the exhibit together from his personal collection. Most of the photos are by Charlie Cox, a photographer for the university at the time.

Ward, an Alton native, said he is hoping to remind people of some of the less famous but no less talented musicians who appeared at the festival. He recalls the classical performers.

Two of Ward's favorite memories are of John Denver and Bob Hope.

Denver stayed in Edwardsville after his performance and visited The Granary, a popular tavern. "He hung out and played football all night," Ward said.

Hope impressed Ward with his sharp mind. Ward was driving Hope to the concert site, and Hope was asking about local names of prominent politicians and others.

"He used all of those names in his act that night," Ward said.

'Forces of Nature' offers refreshing look at love

Romantic comedy is cynical in tone, but realistic in theme

By Chris Waldvogel
Staff writer

Love remains life's most glorious yet least predictable phenomena.

MOVIE REVIEW It's properties — how it starts, when it ends, etc. — often prove a matter of conjecture. Love's fiercest challenge? Deciding with whom long-term happiness may be possible.

In "Forces of Nature," Ben (Ben Affleck) faces such a dilemma. Does he really want to spend the rest of his life with his fiancée Bridget (Maura Tierney)?

He thinks so until a series of transportation glitches and weather patterns hinder him from getting down to Savannah, where his marriage ceremony awaits.

Stuck with him in his journey is Sarah (Sandra Bullock), a free-spirited, good-time gal with a knack for enchanting those with whom she comes in contact.

With its cynical tone, "Forces" gives us a romantic comedy for our era. Gone are any notions of conventional romance. The movie has the guts to admit that choices made about long-term partners may be rooted in safety or convenience rather than true love. It also tells us love does not always conquer all.

As the big day approaches, Ben's unwavering affection is challenged by those surrounding him; everyone has a horror story about marriage and long-term love.

His overzealous best man (Steve Zahn) attempts to convince Ben that he has precious little time left to experience other women before the chains lock down.

A passenger on the plane, a man offering the couple a ride, a tour guide and even Sarah herself all serve as testament that love and marriage often don't add up to much more than broken hearts.

Ben's doubts deepen as he

begins to feel an attraction for Sarah, whose approach to life begins to loosen him up.

Sarah prompts Ben on top of a stalled train to take in a mountain view. She chides him into ride a spinning sombrero with a bunch of senior citizens. She beckons him on the floor to share a dance and gets him to strip for money.

Ben wonders if he has been missing out on life's passion and if Sarah has landed in his life as some act of fate.

"Forces" takes what could have been a mushy tale about this impromptu meeting and turns it on its head. By giving us examples of how messed up love can be, the movie also makes a case for how special it is when two people truly feel for each other.

Nearly flawless casting also adds to the film's charm.

Bullock and Affleck compliment each other well, his rigid stick in the mud to her carefree approach.

As a charming man-child with an uncontrollable id, Zahn steals scenes with his constant insistence that Ben is heading to disaster if he doesn't enjoy himself before the wedding.

Ronny Cox and Blythe Danner shine in bit roles as Bridget's prim and proper Southern parents who hold old-fashioned ideas about love, yet themselves see fit to break them (they announce their separation slightly before the wedding.)

Don't think the film attributes good fortune to every successful relationship. The key, "Forces" tells us, lies in knowing what you are looking for. Sometimes love can forego self-gratification without sacrificing happiness. Now that's romantic.

Preview to benefit festival

Chase Park
Cinema offers film showing Friday

By Sonia Ahuja
Staff writer

A fund-raising event will give movie buffs a chance not only to view some of the latest international films, but to have a first look at the Chase Park Plaza Cinema.

Proceeds from the Sneak Preview at the Chase Park Plaza Cinema at 7 p.m. Friday will benefit the Saint Louis International Film Festival. The cinema will officially open March 26.

The Saint Louis International Film Festival, in its eighth year, is a nonprofit organization that promotes film as an art form.

Each year a weeklong screening of about 100 American and international films is offered at various cinemas in St. Louis. The 1999 International Film Festival is slated for Oct. 29 through Nov. 7.

"We are excited about holding the benefit at the Chase Park Plaza Cinema," said Christine Beshner, a member of the festival's film selection committee. "And we are excited that the city has a new venue for showcasing films year-round."

The cinema consists of five auditoriums, highlighted with hand-painted murals. The seating capacity is about 465.

It is part of the restoration of the entire Chase Park Plaza, a St. Louis landmark.

A $70 million renovation project began after the property was acquired by Kingsdell L.P. in 1994.

The Starlight Roof at the Chase, a banquet facility, and restored lobby and public areas, along with the cinema, will be unveiled to invited guests Thursday.

A restaurant and swimming pool will open in the summer.

The Chase Park Plaza is at 212-232 N. Kingshighway Blvd. Tickets for the festival benefit are $25 in advance, $20 for Friends of the Festival and $30 at the door.

Call 454-0042 for more information.

Politics plays part in Oscars

Trivia

Kevin Carbery

By Kevin Carbery
Staff writer

Every year, somebody gets cheated out of an Oscar.

You can bet that it will happen again this Sunday, when the 71st Academy Awards ceremony will be broadcast from Los Angeles on ABC.

Hollywood politics plays a big part in who wins the awards. Hype fits into the mix. Public opinion also sways voters in the Academy of Motion Pictures Arts and Sciences.

With this in mind, I am going to tell you who I think is going to win, as well as who I think should win Oscars in the major categories for their work in films released in 1998.

Best Film: Will win — "Saving Private Ryan." Should win — "Life Is Beautiful."

Best Director: Will win — Steven Spielberg, "Saving Private Ryan." Should win — Roberto Benigni, "Life Is Beautiful."

Best Actress: Will win — Gwyneth Paltrow, "Shakespeare in Love." Should win — Paltrow.

Best Actor: Will win — Tom Hanks, "Saving Private Ryan." Should win — Nick Nolte, "Affliction."

Best Supporting Actress: Will win — Judi Dench, "Shakespeare in Love." Should win — Lynn Redgrave, "Gods and Monsters."

Best Supporting Actor: Will win — James Coburn, "Affliction." Should win — Coburn.

These choices are based on people and films actually nominated. Had the film "Waking Ned Devine" or someone in its cast received a nomination, I probably would have made different picks. Also, I would love to have seen Bill Murray nominated for Best Supporting

Actor for "Rushmore."

For this week's trivia, the questions are on Oscar winners, whether they deserved them or not.

1. Who won an Academy Award for his performance as a man who has AIDS in a 1993 film?

2. What film depicting circus life won the 1952 Best Picture award?

3. What film won for Best Picture at last year's Academy Awards ceremony?

4. Robert Benton won the 1979 Best Director award for what film about divorce?

5. Who won the Best Actress award at last year's ceremony?

6. The 1943 Best Actor award did not go to Humphrey Bogart for "Casablanca." Who got it?

7. Who won the 1990 Best Supporting Actress honor for her work in a movie with a supernatural plot?

8. Who received the 1992 Best Actor Oscar for playing a suicidal blind man?

9. What light comedy beat out the Western classic "The Searchers" for Best Picture of 1956?

10. What youngster won the Best Supporting Actress award for 1993?

ANSWERS: 1. Tom Hanks for "Philadelphia." That award should have been Liam Neeson's for "Schindler's List." 2. "The Greatest Show on Earth." Film historians often point to this as the worst award winner ever. It beat out such superior films as "High Noon," "The Quiet Man" and "Singin' in the Rain." 3. "Titanic." Yuck. "L.A. Confidential" should have won. 4. "Kramer vs. Kramer." Francis Ford Coppola, who was nominated for "Apocalypse Now," was robbed. 5. Helen Hunt for "As Good As It Gets." Judi Dench should have won for "Mrs. Brown." 6. Paul Lukas for "Watch on the Rhine." 7. Whoopi Goldberg for "Ghost," beating out the better performance by Annette Bening for "The Grifters." 8. Al Pacino for "Scent of a Woman." It should have gone to Clint Eastwood for "Unforgiven." 9. "Around the World in 80 Days." 10. Anna Paquin for "The Piano." It should have gone to Rosie Perez for "Fearless."

Horoscope

THURSDAY, MARCH 18

Our love planet, Venus, returns home, nestling into sensual Taurus' realm. Romance and luxury co-exist, leading one another through emotionally rich love. But don't think you have to spend big money for the best life has to offer. If you choose to have a sensual experience, you will, and it will have nothing to do with economics.

TODAY'S BIRTHDAY (March 18). Start asking for what you want now, when the stars bring you fast results. In April, a partner or relative shares financial blessings with you — don't be too proud to accept!

ARIES (March 21-April 19). Take the initiative, and offer your friendship to someone in need. Nervousness about a relationship is within you and not another person. Spend money to fix what is broken. Relax as investments start to show a profit.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20). An enemy is in need of help; give it, and make a friend. A previous investment begins to show a return. Someone wants to get past your hard exterior and see what's underneath. Trust your intuition about people; go for it.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21). Let the love you feel inside be known to your partner. Trust your intuition concerning a new person in your life. When you are complimented, show thanks to those who helped you achieve. A past investment pays off.

CANCER (June 22-July 22). Your plans for a new project or ideas about a personnel reorganization will soon be called upon. Today brings educational possibilities for you and a spiritual vantage point that will bring you solace.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22). You can't deny the truth any longer. A business deal you've lost hope for will get a second run. Romance may simmer on the back burner until you have the guts to seize the moment.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22). Let yourself enjoy the successes of your life by doing what you've been putting off. Invest in your ideas. Take a walk to an old hangout, and enjoy the memories. Let someone special share in your life.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23). You've got the right idea about a venture, but you still need to take things to the next level. Research is a fun way to pass the hours this afternoon, and besides, it saves you days of work in the long run. See a movie or play.

Travel club plans year 2000 extravaganza

Michael Feinstein, Rosemary Clooney and the Tucson Symphony Orchestra will provide the entertainment at a New Year's extravaganza organized by Belleville Area College's Travel Club and Southwest Bank.

The Dec. 30-Jan. 3, 2000, Millennium New Year's Extravaganza takes travelers to Tucson, Ariz., for a private gala and sightseeing at some of Tucson's popular attractions, including the Arizona-Sonora Desert Museum and the Old Tucson Studios. Individuals travel to Tombstone by railroad and visit the O.K. Corral and also jaunt into Mexico.

Cost of the trip is $1,065 per person plus airfare. The price includes round-trip transfers from Belleville to Lambert Airport, round-trip airfare from St. Louis, four nights' lodging, admissions and fees, all meals, luxury motorcoach, trip cancellation insurance, step-on guides, tips and gratuities. A $100 deposit is due upon booking. Full payment is due no later than Oct. 20.

Study finds effects of scary movies can linger for years

Lasting impact possible — especially for children

Do you think of "Jaws" and sharks whenever you dip into the ocean?

It wouldn't be unusual — a new study shows one in four people have some lingering "fright" effect from a movie or TV show they saw as a child or teen.

Some people who saw the thriller about a man-eating shark off the New England coast never went into the ocean again, University of Michigan assistant communications professor Kristen Harrison said.

The classic Alfred Hitchcock movie "Psycho" also changed the lives of some people who saw it.

"There are people who shower with the door open, even though they're quite sure there isn't a killer in the house. That is a change in habits," said Harrison, co-author of a study on the lingering effects of media fright.

A New Mexico advocacy group says parents need to be aware: Not all so-called family movies are appropriate for children of all ages.

A study by Harrison and Joanne Cantor, a communications professor at the University of Wisconsin at Madison, surveyed more than 150 students on both campuses.

They found 90 percent of survey participants admitted to having a "media fright reaction" from their childhood or adolescence. And 26 percent said they still experience a "residual anxiety" from it, Harrison said.

"Different ages are affected by different things. Younger children, the younger they are, are more likely to be frightened by something they can see or hear, a scary face, a loud noise," she said.

For example, a scene in the Disney flick "Lion King," where the cub paws at his father's body, could scare preschoolers, Harrison said. An older child might be frightened by a movie about nuclear war.

Ranny Levy, president of the Coalition for Quality Children's Media, said her own 27-year-old son was frightened of taking a swim in the sea a few years ago and blames it on seeing the movie "Jaws."

"He had to force himself. He really identified it with watching 'Jaws' when he was little," she said from the group's headquarters in Santa Fe, N.M. The group has about 3,300 adult and child volunteers who screen movies for appropriateness.

Horror films, like the recent release "The Rage: Carrie 2," can have a lingering effect on those who see them.

Some study results were used in a book recently published by Cantor, "Mommy, I'm Scared," giving parents tips on how to deal with childhood fear.

The bottom line is parents must closely monitor what their children watch, said Harrison.

The younger children are when they have a fright reaction, the longer it lasted.

Movies make use of sound effects in subtle ways

"The Thin Red Line," great attention was focused on the gentler, quieter scenes between the booming battles, according to re-recording mixer Anna Behmer, nominated in the sound achievement category.

Terrence Malick, the idiosyncratic director, had a unique ear for war, she said. "Terry made it pretty clear in a lot of areas he wanted the film to seem meditative."

She recalled him telling her: "Make it oceanic. Make it flow from one scene to the next without any harsh scene changes that will jolt the audience. When I get them in a zone I want to keep them there, almost like a stream of consciousness."

"It was different," said Behmer. "After a while, you kind of got it. It was a question of getting it. It was a question of getting into Terry's thinking and Terry's mode. Then, it made perfect sense."

In the other World War II movie, "Saving Private Ryan," sound design and re-recording mixer Gary Rydstrom said the goal was to present battle through the ears of the soldier on the ground and, in some brief scenes, under the ocean water, with close attention to authenticity.

"One of my jobs was to make a library of World War II sounds that would resonate with the men who heard them," said Rydstrom, nominated in both categories. "It was so specific: the ping of an empty cartridge after an M1 shoots, the sound of a German tank having a squeal and an American tank being smoother."

Another challenge was to create a sound effects symphony for the much-lauded opening scene of 25 minutes of carnage on the beach at Normandy — full of noise, but no musical score.

"We had to take control of it. We had to make it seem both chaotic, like a real battle, but particular, so that every bullet impact was seared into your memory," he said.

Among the ways the sound technicians for "Saving Private Ryan" tried to make the sounds more memorable were through the use of ricochet noises and other startling and unpredictable sounds.

"The most terrifying sounds are those things that you can't tell where they're coming from," said Rydstrom. "That's what scares you."

Attention to detail in the movie sound business has reached the point where a sword fight is more than just clashing steel.

A single sword effect in "The Mask of Zorro" was actually the result of eight to 12 different effects, from the whoosh of the saber through the clanking metal to the after-ring, said supervising sound editor David McMoyler, nominated in the effects category.

As the movie progresses, and the hero, played by Antonio Banderas, becomes more adept at fighting, his sword sounds changes. The strikes go from "really flat sounds" to having "more timbre, a lot more ring," said McMoyler.

"It's not as simple as finding the appropriate sound to match the vision," said McMoyler. "For every sound I put in there, I wanted to tell the story, to flesh out the character, not just to make it sound cool. And if it sounds cool, that's great. And when they all work together, that's a cherry on top."
